

Lady Lucifer

lyric · January 1, 1991

Well I'm gazing out the window
With her fingers running through my hair
The neon lights are flashing
Taking raindrop pictures in the air

I'm in Heaven with a guitar
And a woman with a bottle and a smoke
So won't you tell me another story now baby
And I'll play you the new song I wrote

With a burst of thunder and a flash of light I hit the floor
With a dragon tattoo and a leather skirt she stood in the door
The flame from her fingers called me closer to those eyes so blue
She said "just give me your soul and I'll make all your dreams come true"

Now I'm wondering just how in the hell I got into all of this
That red-haired woman stole my soul with just one kiss?
Oh no no you can't tell me that

Well I wake up sweating bullets
And I feel like I been knocked out of bed
The nightmares are so real it's like a slide-show horror film
Imprinted in my head

I can hear a million souls
Screaming the agony of flesh and fire
It makes me think about that woman
And the price of everything I desire

On my knees I swear to God I didn't know it was real
I fell in lust and she cut me into one of her deals
I'm on top of the world but I'd give it all up right now
I sold my soul to the Devil but I'll get it back somehow

Now Satan speaks to me and walls are burning black

He said, “ You made a deal with me and now you want to take it back?”
Oh no no, You can’t tell me that

j. Wilford, 1991